Three Divorces Granted.

Three divorces were granted in the superior court at Winsted, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Amanda Beckley Woodin of Bridgeport, obtained a decree from Arthur Woodin, who is supposed to be in Vermont. They were married May 22, 1910. She left three years ago. They have three children. Intolerable cruelty was the complaint. Henry H. Gray of Hyde Park, Mass., was divorced from Lena G. Gray of East Litchfield for desertion. An argument with his father-in-law over a telephone bill resulted in his being ordered from the place, his wife remaining with her parents. Ida M. Risley of Harwinton was divorced from Harry Risley, who was last heard from in the Litchfield jail. They were married March 14, 1904, and he left the next day. Mrs. Risley got the custody of one child born of the marriage.

Will Case for Practice.

At a recent meeting of the Litchfield County Bar, a committee consisting of President L. J. Nickerson of West Cornwall, John Addis of New Milford and Frank B. Mann of Winsted, was appointed to care for the business of any member of the association who may be called to the colors.

The will of Mrs. Dorcas C. Barton, executed February 11, 1915, was admitted to probate at Winsted, Monday. Among the bequests are the following: To the Christian Science Society of Winsted, $10,000; to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lydia B. Dudley, wife of George E. Dudley, $5,000; to her grandson, George E. Dudley, Jr., $10,000; to her brother, George Smith of South Hanson, Mass., $1,000; to her niece, Mary E. Smith, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., $1,000; to Thomas F. O'Keefe of Winsted, for many years her coachman and chauffeur, $1,000. She also left to her son, George E. Dudley, her watch and chain, diamonds and jewelry, and to her sister, Mary E. Brush of New Bedford, Mass., her personal effects. The residue of the estate, the value of which is not known, is given to her son, George E. Dudley, of Youngstown, O.

Sentences of Prisoners.

Eight prisoners were brought from Litchfield jail to Winsted, Tuesday, and put to plea before Judge Webb in the superior court. All of them pleaded guilty. Michael McManus, 47 years old, and John Joyce, 28 years old, both of Lakeville, attendants at the Connecticut School for Imbeciles, pleaded guilty to assault, the former to six counts and the latter to four counts. It is charged that the men directed what is called nigger piling at the school, whereby a bunch of boys set upon one of their number, resulting in his being brutally handled. It is said that the evidence was obtained by a member of the state police, who entered the employ of the school as an attendant. The brutality had been charged and it was for the purpose of breaking up an old system that the investigation was made. Judge Webb, deferred passing sentence in order to give the state's attorney time to get a report from the school. James Whalen of Kent, pleaded guilty to larceny and was sentenced to not less than one year nor more than 18 months in state prison. In his own behalf Whalen said it was all a result of drink. Dan Duggan, 52 years old, of Watertown, pleaded guilty to breaking into the store of Andrew W. Barton of Watertown on the night of May 6. He was sentenced to a year in jail. Walter Griswold, 18 years old, of Watertown, pleaded guilty to breaking into the house of William H. Pastore in Watertown also on the night of May 6. He was the main support of his mother and sister, who were in the court room. Judge Webb sentenced him to nine months in jail and then suspended sentence and put him in the custody of S. McLean Buckingham of Watertown as probation officer. Joseph Gancia, 38 years old, of Cornwall, was sentenced to six months in jail for forger. Jeremiah Reardon, 42 years old, of Thomaston, pleaded guilty for the third time to being a common drunkard, and was sentenced to the state farm for inebriates at Norwich for three years. Alfred Sawyer, 44 years old, of Litchfield, pleaded guilty to charges of breach of the peace and assaulting Deputy Sheriff William E. Turkington, and was sentenced to two months in jail. Jail sentence was suspended.

Drowned.

The body of Robert Chester Riley, 14 years old, son of Burt Riley, of Bethel, was found in Blackman's pond, Redding, Tuesday. In company with his father the boy went fishing Saturday night. The boy disappeared during the night and his father supposed he had returned home. It is supposed that the boy walked into the pond accidentally in the darkness.

Saved From Gas.

Miss Elizabeth Love of Stamford narrowly escaped death from illuminating gas, Tuesday, in her room. She was ill Monday and Tuesday, and on Tuesday she made a cup of tea on a gas stove in the room. The stop-cock which governs the flow of gas in the gas stove and the one which regulates the flow of gas in the gas-jet for illuminating purposes are so close together that it would be a simple matter for the woman, when she turned off the gas-stove supply accidentally to open the gas-jet stop-cock. This apparently is what happened.

Killed By Train.

John Olivetti, a farm hand was instantly killed when he was struck by a freight train near the Mill Plain station Tuesday night.

Attempted Suicide.

George Chagares of Stamford, a Greek, about 25 years of age, unmarried, attempted suicide Tuesday afternoon, in his lodging place, by inhaling illuminating gas. He was discovered in time to save his life.

BRYAN SUPPORTS

FOOD CONTROL BILLS

Washington, June 22—William J. Bryan, in passing through this city yesterday, added his support to the administration food bills, in this statement: "A government that can commandeer the lives of the young men and the money of its older men should have the power to protect the people from the greed of the few. I am not afraid to trust the government with the power such as this bill would give."

CHAIN SYSTEM IS PROGRAM OF GERMAN AGENTS

"Arguments" They Use Against War Exposed By Secret Service

The secret service of the United States deserves both branches of its name; it works and it keeps its mouth closed. But if those public enemies whom it foils and defeats choose to chatter, the service does not always gag them; and so far as is known it has made no effort to suppress the following facts about the Kaiser's present propaganda in this country.

Every German spy and sympathizer is instructed to pick out two men whom he can trust and talk to them after this fashion:

1. "This is a Wall street war, a war of the interests." (It will be today to most of us that Wall street bank the Lusitania and ordered American ships off the sea.)

2. "Why should we fight England's battles?" (Ignoring the fact that for the present, at least, England and France are fighting ours.)

3. "We must stop the export of munitions and food instantly." (Thus doing for the Kaiser what his expensive fleet and murderous submarines have failed to do.)

4. "There's no need of going to Europe to fight, the Germans alone will take care of it." (The Kaiser knows perfectly that a three months' campaign in the neighborhood of New York or Philadelphia would cost the United States more blood, tears, and treasure than a two years' war in Europe.)

When the two men thus chosen have been filled to the neck with these "arguments," each of them is to go out and get two more, and so on, ad infinitum. There are other points in the game of sowing dissension between our suspected allies, but those given in quotation marks above are the main ones. When you hear or read such stuff, you know who inspires it. Chicago Journal.

RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

The scenes enacted during the French revolution are being repeated today in Russia, and the new Russian revolution is being watched and commented upon by the people of the world. The French revolution was the life of the former Czar, as the French proletariat demanded the life of those who had ruled and ruined them. The meagre dispatches coming from Russia tell of the Czar's abdication in his present condition as a prisoner in the Alexandrovsky palace, from where but three months ago he directed the destinies of 180,000,000 people. But simple imprisonment does not seem to satisfy the new people of Russia. They demand punishment, exile to Siberia, where he sent so many of his former subjects, or death. The hotbed of the demand for punishment is Saratov and the placards, which recently appeared there upon which were written in red letters "Trial for Nicholas II," have been spread throughout Russia. Meanwhile the ex-Czar and his family are being closely watched and prevented from communicating with each other. And even those who are keeping guard over them are being watched. Nicholas sees his children at certain times, his consort at others. Never is the family permitted to be together. Nicholas wears a military uniform, he reads the morning and evening papers, digs in the garden, takes walks about the palace grounds, accompanied by an officer, and does his best to get news of the military operations. Nothing else seems to interest him, not even the fate of his house or his immediate family. The former Czarina reads religious works. She is said to be fanatic on the subject of the children. She makes bandages for the wounded. They are all shut off from the outside world and whatever knowledge they gain of the affairs of the world in general or Russia in particular is through the daily papers. The regime at the palace-prison is very severe. Every step the prisoners take is watched by a dozen eyes. Meanwhile their fate hangs in the balance and rests with the Russian people.

SMALL RETAILERS ARE FORCED FROM BUSINESS BY UNFAIR METHODS

Chicago, June 22—Unfair competition, according to a committee report to the "liberty convention" of the National Wholesale Grocers' association here yesterday, is driving small retailers from business in increasing numbers.

The alleged unfairness consists, according to the report, in manufacturers selling large consignments direct to chain stores, mail order houses and department stores at prices lower than to the small retailer.

The report held that such practices are clearly within the law prohibiting unfair competition.

The report remarked that there are 623,393 retail merchants, including 318,631 grocers, in the United States.

The Poison of German Intrigue ---Wilson's Antidote

German intrigue in America as well as in Russia, in the form of veiled peace proposals, which, to use the words of President Wilson, "aim to deceive all those throughout the world who stand for the rights of peoples and the self-government of nations," is the subject of the leading article in this week's LITERARY DIGEST, dated June 23d.

The article, using the President's note to the Russian people and his Flag Day address as a basis, makes very clear just what America is fighting for and the peace that must come. It throws the light of public opinion in this country, as shown by the newspaper press, upon the President's words, and shows that they are not only a warning to the Russians to avoid the fatal error of deserting the Allies, but, in the opinion of the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, they are "also a warning to Pro-German neutrals and to Pro-Germans in this country." The article also gives answer to those who favor the making of a separate peace by Russia.

Among other topics of almost equal interest and importance which are treated in this issue of the "Digest," are:

"We Have Tasted Liberty and It Has Made Us Drunk"

Remarked Russian Minister of War, Kerensky, and, in the Opinion of the Foreign Correspondents in Russia, He Spoke the Truth. This Article Shows the Russian Muddle in All Its Angles.

All News-Roads Lead At Last to "The Digest"

Did you ever stop to think of the path your news travels to reach you, of how an event no sooner happens than the story of it speeds away, by word of mouth, by telegraph or telephone, is flashed through submarine cables or flies free in air on the wings of the wireless to the office of some newspaper, where it is translated into cold type, rushed through the presses, and hurried forth again by motor-car, by boat, by rail, on horseback, and, in some remote districts, on camelback, on sledges, or by canoe, to reach your door?

All this is wonderful enough, but when you reflect that the published news of the whole world comes to the editors of THE LITERARY DIGEST, and is put by them through an impartial sieve, which retains only the choicest part, uncolored and unchanged in the least degree, then your wonder grows. For your use and benefit the pith of all the world's events is concentrated without bias in the columns of THE DIGEST, week by week. Be advised and avail yourself today of this greatest of modern news-recorders.
